WILL PAVE MORE OF FIRST STREET

Council Again Hands it to J. M. Gwinn and Orders Another Half Square Improved.

DEGOLYER GETS CONTRACT

Gwinn Will be Compelled to Move Scales From Perkins Street—Willow Street Again.

The city council met in special session last night to let the contract for the paving of Perkins street from Second to First street. Two bids were received, one from DeGolyer and company and the other from L. B. Harris. The contract was awarded to DeGolyer and company. Their bid was as follows: brick, $1.98 per square yard, combined curb and gutter, sixty-seven cents a lineal foot and gutter, per lineal foot, forty cents.

J. M. Gwinn was handed another jolt by the council when the preliminary resolution for the paving of First street from Perkins to the first alley east was adopted. The original petition of J. W. Tompkins for the paving of First street asked that the street be paved as far as the first alley east of Perkins street. The council modified the improvement resolution so as to pave the street only to Perkins street when it was understood that J. M. Gwinn would not remonstrate against the Perkins street improvement if the council would not pave First street to the alley east of Perkins.

The modification took 165 feet of paving off Mr. Gwinn and the council thought it would be easy to pave Perkins street after Mr. Gwinn had promised not to remonstrate. But on the night to hear remonstrators one was sent up from Mr. Gwinn. It was then that the council determined to go back to the original petition of Mr. Tompkins and pave the street to the alley.

Councilman Parsons stated that since J. W. Tompkins was the only one living on the street with a right to remonstrate that the clerk be instructed to advertise for bids and do away with the usual procedure of waiting for remonstrators. W. P. Masters of the DeGolyer company stated that the council could save time by doing this and the city attorney was of the opinion that it was all right. When the question was brought to a vote the motion was lost as some of the members preferred to be on the safe side and follow the usual course.

J. M. Gwinn was handed another package by the council when it was decided that the scales in Perkins street in front of the Hiner livery stable would have to be taken out. According to the city attorney the city has no right to let the scales remain and there is nothing to do but remove them. The contractor has the contract to pave the street and as the scales extend out in the street he can not pave with them remaining.

Councilman Newhouse asked the council why Third street had not been repaved after the water mains had been repaired. The brick in West Third street was torn up two or three months ago to fix a break in the water mains. The brick has never been replaced. Councilman Newhouse was informed that the city was waiting for more breaks in the mains before replacing the street as it was before it was torn up. This explanation was accepted as nothing more was said concerning the street.

The city council invested in five hundred feet of fire hose. A representative of a fire hose company closed the contract with the city. It was pointed out that the city was

BRIDGE CONTRACT IS LET

Henry and Rush County Commissioners Hold Joint Meeting.

While in joint session at Newcastle yesterday the Henry county board of commissioners and the Rush county board awarded the contract for repairing a bridge on the Henry-Rush county line to the Burk Construction company of Newcastle. The contract price was $6,787. The bridge was damaged by the flood. Commissioners T. J. Humes and Edson Aiken represented the Rush county board as Commissioner John E. Harrison could not be notified in time for him to reach Rushville to make the trip. The Henry county board let a number of other contracts.

HE WILL SETTLE UP HIS SHORTAGE

Henry Kiplinger Writes Wife Here That he Will Make Defalcations Good.

DISAPPEARED FEW WEEKS AGO

Henry Kiplinger, who until two years ago was a painter here and who has been acting as a collector and solicitor for the Public Savings Insurance company at Columbus has written his wife, who is at the home of her parents here, that he will be ready to settle up his shortage with the insurance company by Friday of this week. This information is contained in an article in the Columbus Republican. The letter was turned over by Mrs. Kiplinger to Manager Sadley of the Columbus office who in turn sent the letter in to the home of the company at Indianapolis.

About four weeks ago the Columbus Republican said that Mr. Kiplinger had disappeared mysteriously and that his wife had come to this city to live with her parents. It developed the man was the same Mr. Kiplinger who lived here. Although the Republican did not say at first that Kiplinger's accounts were short, this fact was intimated.

FORMER MANILLA BOY SUCSUMBS

James S. Rice, Age Thirty-Nine Years, Expires at Huntsville, Mo., After Long Illness.

Word has been received at Manilla of the death of James S. Rice, thirty-nine years old, at Huntsville, Mo. Mr. Rice is a son of John Rice, of Manilla, and was for many years a resident of that town. He had been away from there since 1896 and had been most successful in the lumbering business in Missouri. He was manager of the Harris Lumber Company at Huntsville at the time of his death and was one of the most prominent business men of the city, being held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He had been ill for several months and his father was at his bedside when the end came. He married Miss Lillian Holman, of Huntsville in 1907 but they had no children. His brother, William, of Flemingsburg, Ky., was with him at the time of his death and he also leaves a half-brother, Fred, of Manilla, who is now employed at Logansport. Deceased was born in Fleming county, Kentucky, but his boyhood was spent as a resident of Manilla and he had many friends there who were saddened by the news of his death.

EVIDENCE OF DOUBLE-CROSS

M. M. Mulhall Asked Watson to Assist Him in Getting N. A. M. Position Back.

WROTE LETTER MAY 26, 1913

It Was Two Days Before he Sold Correspondence to New York World Which Attack Watson.

The Senate lobby investigating committee at Washington late yesterday afternoon practically finished the direct examination of Martin M. Mulhall, but before he did so the fact was brought out that two days before he signed a contract to deliver his correspondence to the New York World for $10,000, he had written a letter to former Representative James E. Watson appealing to him to intercede in his behalf with D. M. Parry, of Indianapolis, former President of the Manufacturers' Association.

Mulhall was very anxious to be reinstated in the service of that organization, and yet at that very time he was making his arrangements to betray it. Likewise he was fixing up his charge against Watson that the latter had accepted employment from the association while still a member of Congress.

Today the Senate Investigating Committee turned its attention to examination of Mulhall, and attorneys for the American Federation of Labor, also involved in the correspondence were to begin the cross-examination of the witness.

Members of the committee will attempt to strengthen Mulhall's story of his political activities in Washington and throughout the country, while the attorneys will do their best to break it down. Questions by the lawyers under the committee rule will be filtered to the witness through its Chairman. Robert McCarter, counsel for the association, has about 250 questions he wishes; Attorney Jackson H. Ralston, for the Federation of Labor, has prepared about 100 more, and no one knows how many separate queries members of the committee will submit to Mulhall before he is allowed to quit the witness chair in the Senate wing of the Capitol and face the special House committee that is eagerly waiting his appearance across the rotunda.

Mulhall testified that at one time he was fearful that James E. Watson was trying to root him out of his job as the boss lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers. This fear, he said, struck him about the time Mr. Watson was to retire from Congress. He thought he could detect signs that Mr. Watson was working with Attorney Emery of the association to root him out of his job, and he was impressed with the belief that Watson wanted the place himself. Mulhall about that time wrote to I. H. McMichael, the head page of the House, asking when Watson's term in Congress would end. This was because of his apprehension that Watson would step out of Congress into his (Mulhall's) shoes.

It developed in today's testimony that as late as May 26, last, Mulhall wrote a letter to Watson pleading with him to use influence to get him (Mulhall) reinstated in his old position with the N. A. M. The letter was sent to Mr. Watson here, and its significance lies in the fact that at that very time Mulhall must have been dickering to sell exposure of the N. A. M. and Watson, for two days later he closed the contract with

MERCURY GETS UP TO HIGH MARK

Thermometers Register 103 Degrees Today Which is Higher Than Record Days in June.

MERCURY PERFORMS ANTICS

Sleeping is Lost Art in Rushville and Bath Tub is Advised as Most Comfortable Bed.

The humidity or some such thing—whatever was responsible for the kind of a day this was—had no regard for weather records. This afternoon the thermometer registered a hundred and three degrees which puts all marks for this summer in the shade.

The high temperature of the day and year was reached at fifteen minutes after two o'clock. The mercury had arisen to 102 at noon today and this was marked up as the record for the season. It dropped a degree by one o'clock and remained stationary until two o'clock when it took a sudden sprint upward.

Shortly after the record temperature was reached a dark cloud appeared in the northeast and a storm threatened. In the next few minutes the mercury dropped five degrees. The air was cooled for a short time and then the temperature rose again. Rain fell here in Rushville for a few minutes but the cloud passed over without any damage being done.

Another sad feature of the day was the disappearance of humanity's only friend from the scene of the battle—the cooling breeze which has saved many a day. Today the smoke which rolled from the downtown stacks took a course almost straight heavenward.

There was probably less sleeping in Rushville last night than any this year. The only source of rest was the bathtub filled with water. The morning topic on the street was the new ways which have been discovered for getting relief. And as one man said, the worst part of it all was that when he did get a few hours' drift into slumberland, he woke felling more tired and hotter than ever.

The temperature at 7 p. m. yesterday was 89 and throughout the night it varied from that figure to 73, the minimum for the day.

The weatherman is not averse to giving relief of any kind, so he delved into some musty old books today, and found that the hottest day that Indiana has ever had was on July 22, 1901, when the official temperature was 106 degrees.

Reflect on that, he said, and then think how cool this weather really is, after all.

NO SERVICES.

Owing to the fact that the St. Paul M. E. church is undergoing some repairs on the interior there will be no prayer meeting Thursday night and no services Sunday. A new carpet is being placed in the church and it will not be ready by Sunday. It is hoped to have the church ready by a week from Sunday.

The ladies of the St. Paul M. E. church are requested to meet at the church Friday morning at 7:30 o'clock to clean house. Preparations for the new carpet will be made and each one is asked to bring a bucket and the necessary rags.

Elder C. W. Radcliff of Connerville is expected to preach at the Morgan Street Primitive Baptist church Friday evening August 1. At the next regular meeting of the church there will be one trustee to elect.

HALL IS STILL ALIVE

Brakeman Hurt in Ohio Has no Chance For Recovery.

Chester Hall, formerly of this city and a son of the late Dr. Fred Hall of Arlington, who was fatally hurt in a railroad accident in Ohio last Sunday evening, is still alive, according to word received by Dr. Frank Green, a relative, today. Young Hall was a brakeman on the Big Four. He was knocked from the top of a car by a bridge. An error was made yesterday in stating Hall was unconscious as Dr. Green says that he was recognized when he approached the bed in the hospital. There is said to be no hope for his recovery because of the injury to his back.

AUTO CARAVAN TO GO AGAIN TONIGHT

"Flying Squadron" Will Visit Towns it Was Intended to Visit Last Night.

GIRLS FURNISH THE MUSIC

The "flying squadron" which is advertising the chautauqua will make another trip tonight. The towns visited tonight will be the same as those which it was intended to visit last night. At the last moment the "squadron" last night went to Arlington, Carthage and Mays because there had been no advertising done there. Glenwood, Fairview, Fahmouth and Raleigh will be visited this evening. The cars will leave Wolcott's drug store at 6:30 o'clock.

There were only three machine loads last night, but the crowd made its presence felt every place. S. L. Trabue made short talks at each stop in which he told something of the program this year. Music was furnished by seven girls: Catherine Wooden, Helen Frazee, Catherine Giffin, Mary Louise Bliss, Dorothy Sparks, Lois Reeves and Esther Anderson. Machines were furnished by Dr. Frank M. Sparks, Ralph Kennedy and S. L. Trabue. Will Feudner and George Wingerter started late and did not catch the crowd until Mays was reached.

MUST SIGN THEM IN INK

Rule as to Chautauqua Tickets to be Enforced This Year.

Chautauqua officials wish patrons of the assembly to understand that they should sign season tickets in ink before attending the chautauqua for the first time so as to avoid the trouble of having to sign them after reaching the grounds. No ticket will be good unless signed and they are not transferable and the association reserves the right to cancel any ticket presented by any person other than the one whose name is written on it. Patrons are asked to remember that children under eight years of age are admitted free of charge if accompanied by their parents or a guardian.

STEWART BEALE SICK.

Stewart Beale, engineer at the city water and light plant, was overcome with an attack of paresis last evening and today he is confined to his bed. He is unable to stand up and last night he was unable to talk. His ailment is a form of creeping paralysis which physicians say has been gradually developing in Mr. Beale's body for a year or more.

BRINGS MESSAGE FROM MOUNTAINS

Dr. E. O. Guerrant, Who Lectures at Chautauqua, Conceived Missionary Work Among Highlanders.

FRIEND OF REV. J. B. MEACHAM

He is Versatile Enough to be Soldier, Doctor, Preacher and Evangelist. Knows Noted Feudests.

It was largely through the recommendation of the Rev. J. B. Meacham, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, that Dr. E. O. Guerrant, who is a leader in the movement looking toward the uplifting of the mountaineers, was placed on the chautauqua program this year. Naturally enough the Rev. Mr. Meacham, as a vindication for himself, is hoping that Dr. Guerrant will make a lasting impression here. He will speak Saturday evening, August 9.

There is no doubt in the mind of the Rev. Mr. Meacham or in the minds of the members of the talent committee but that Dr. Guerrant will make good on the local program. He is personally acquainted with the Rev. Mr. Meacham, and if for no other reason, he will put forth his best efforts here, the home of a very dear friend of his.

The talent committee did not have to investigate long to learn that all of Mr. Meacham's assertions concerning Dr. Guerrant were all true and that he did not make half strong enough. Dr. Guerrant is a very versatile man. This fact is illustrated by a recent incident.

The Rev. Mr. Meacham wrote Dr. Guerrant a letter asking him what he would speak on. The local minister said that if Dr. Guerrant had no special choice, he would like to put him down for a subject. Dr. Guerrant replied that the Rev. Mr. Meacham could go as far as he liked. He said he was in the hands of his friends and he knew that he would be treated right.

The Rev. Mr. Meacham has extolled the virtues of Dr. Guerrant in the pulpit here a number of times. He has outlined the life of sacrifice and endeavor by the educator to bring the southern mountaineers to a higher plane of living. He has told of the many school houses and churches that have been built as a result of the effort of Dr. Guerrant. The southern educator never takes up a

UNCLE SAM'S MILK AT EDUCATION

Department of Agriculture Has Set Up No Bacterial Standards, Says Statement.

THE numerous misapprehensions under which the public in general and dairymen everywhere in particular have been laboring in regard to the work the government is carrying on, with a view to establish a higher standard of purity in the nation's milk supply, has led the department of agriculture to issue a statement outlining its policy in dealing with the milk situation in the United States. Contrary to the general impression, the statement points out, the government has set up no bacterial standards with which all milk coming under its jurisdiction in interstate commerce must comply, but instead is conducting a campaign of education to instruct dairymen and others handling the milk supply of cities and towns to produce and ship good milk.

The statement follows: "It is erroneously supposed that the department of agriculture has established absolute standards and bacterial counts to which all milk coming under its jurisdiction in interstate commerce must comply. The department has established no absolute standards. It certainly has not and will not establish any rule declaring that milk containing less than a certain number of bacteria per cubic centimeter is good milk. Under such a standard, milk containing less than a certain number of typhoid or tubercle bacilli would automatically be passed as coming up to standard.

"A simple count of the bacteria is not in itself sufficient to determine absolutely its safety. The nature of the bacteria as well as their number also must, if possible, be considered. The presence of only a few disease producing bacteria might make the milk dangerous, while several thousand harmless bacteria could be present without necessarily indicating that the milk was unsafe. The presence of even a few colon bacilli, for instance, is presumptive evidence that cow manure has been allowed to get into the milk between the cow and the consumer. Similarly, a high count of the kinds of bacteria that normally are present in milk indicates either that the milk is dirty, or that it has not been held at low temperature or that it is old.

Campaign of Education.

"The department in its milk activities is carrying on an extensive campaign of education to help dairymen produce and market good clean milk. This work is carried on principally by the dairy division of the bureau of animal industry. This division exercises no policing function. It has no power under the law to seize milk or to prosecute milk dealers. Its work is purely educational. This division issues many educational bulletins, based upon its experiments in the economical production of clean milk. It supplies farmers with these bulletins and also sends men into the field to show milk producers how to make changes within their means, which will raise the quality of their milk and also increase their profits.

"These demonstrations have helped milk producers who supply over 200 cities. In each city these demonstrators cooperated with the local health authorities, not to help them secure evidence or bring prosecutions, but to improve the local system of inspection, whereby the inspectors can find the milk producers of the country to bring their milk up to the city's own standard without being called upon to make excessive expenditures.

"With the inspectors, the demonstrators visit the dairy farms as friends of the farmer. They show him that certain cows in his herd do not yield enough milk to pay for their feed, or the demonstrators may point out certain changes in feeding which will greatly increase the yield. They help the farmer build an inexpensive milk house, and show him how a window or two or a waterproof floor for his barn, or a little whitewash or more frequent cleaning will actually increase his profits. Where desired, they explain methods of pasteurization and shipping and handling of milk.

Tuberculin Supplied Farmers.

"Through this bureau the department supplies tuberculin for testing herds. These demonstrators have no power to compel the farmer to follow their advice. They merely try to show him that these measures are for his own good. They do not and cannot require the farmer to pasteurize his milk. Where they find a herd that is not tested for tuberculosis or milk being produced in an unclean way, they advise that the milk be pasteurized, using any one of a number of competing machines or a homemade pasteurizer.

"As a result of this work thousands of farmers have introduced new and sanitary methods of producing and shipping milk—not because they were forced to do so, but because they saw the justice of protecting their consumers and found that they lost less milk and made greater profits by following the specialists' advice.

"The dairy division advises the pasteurization of milk unknown or of doubtful purity because in large measure it protects the consumer from dangers that might be incurred by using such milk in the raw state. Pasteurization is not recommended as a substitute for sanitary precautions, but as an additional safeguard where the inspection is not sufficient to guarantee the purity of the milk.

Educating the Consumer.

"The dairy division also is conducting an extensive campaign among consumers. In the first place, it is trying to convince them that it costs more to produce clean, wholesome milk than to produce dirty and dangerous milk. In the second place, it aims to show the householder how to keep milk after it has been delivered by the milkman. Clean milk, if allowed to become warm, if kept in unclean vessels or if exposed to the dust of rooms or left within reach of flies quickly deteriorates and may become dangerous.

"Whatever power the department has to compel milk dealers to produce safe, clean milk comes to it from the food and drug act. Under this act the department has power to request the department of justice to order prosecutions or seizures only in the case of milk that enters interstate commerce. In this work the department does not set up standards, but accepts the standards of the city into which the milk is being shipped across state lines.

"The bureau of chemistry, which has only a limited number of inspectors, does most of its work by co-operating with local authorities in the case of milk produced across a state line. Where milk is found to be adulterated it is, of course, seized. Where indications are found that the milk is not properly produced and is likely to become dangerous the dairymen is warned to clean up and is shown how to improve his milk. If he fails to act on this warning prosecution follows.

Aim of the Work.

"The purpose of this work is not so much to protect large cities, that have their own health officers and milk inspectors, but to prevent dangerous milk being shipped across state lines into smaller towns, which have no local milk inspection.

"Inspectors working near Pittsburgh lately found that much milk which was obtained only from Pittsburgh by the local health officer was being sold in nearby suburbs and small towns. The department, of course, had no power over milk produced and sold within state lines, and therefore could take no direct steps to see that milk shipped into them.

towns within the state was clean and pure.

"The major purpose of the study is to determine exact conditions in the district, so that the milk producers may be aided intelligently to produce a satisfactory product. In most cases, save where milk is actually watered or chemically preserved, the government finds that the bad milk results more from the ignorance of the farmer than from any deliberate intention on his part to produce and sell dirty milk. He commonly needs expert advice along practical lines, and this advice in most cases he welcomes and carries out as rapidly as his means permit.

Government's First Investigation.

"The government's first investigation into interstate shipments of milk was undertaken in the summer of 1908 around Cincinnati before that city had a milk inspection department. Most of the milk used in Cincinnati was shipped across the state line from Kentucky. The results of the government's analyses of this milk are as follows:

	Total number samples analyzed.	Number adulterated.	Per cent adulterated.
1909	207	49	23.5
1910	722	95	12.8
1911	Practically no milk work done.
1912	109	14	8.3
1913	211	13	6.2

"The records of infant mortality in Cincinnati from 1909 to the present time show a decrease of about 33 per cent. A number of specialists in children's diseases in that city attribute this decrease in the death of babies to work done by the federal government and by the city in co-operation.

"At the time of the establishment of the branch laboratory in Cincinnati in 1907, no pasteurization was done and little consideration was given to the bottling and delivery of milk in a clean condition. Of the entire supply only that milk delivered by a single firm was pasteurized, and in this case pasteurization was apparently resorted to more as a means for preserving the milk than for any other reason.

"At the present time there are about 31,000 gallons of milk used each day in Cincinnati, and of these, 28,000 gallons are pasteurized, the remainder being from tuberculin tested cows."

SPECIALISTS ON MARKETING.

Employed by Government to Report Prices From Start to Finish.

It is announced by the department of agriculture at Washington that a specialist on marketing perishable produce will investigate prices received by producers, cost of transportation and storage, change of ownership, accumulated charges, profits and other elements. This specialist will then study conditions in various sections to determine the feasibility of a market news service dealing with perishable products and also the best method of making statistics of supply and demand useful to the farmer or truck gardener.

Other specialists will give attention to studying co-operative organizations of producers and consumers, including co-operative marketing associations of farmers and buyers, co-operative stores, etc. They will make intensive studies of typical communities dealing with special products and will assist in the formation of new co-operative enterprises. An expert in co-operative accounting will assist such organizations to keep their books and records effectively, establish cost systems and follow up methods of handling goods en route and on sale.

Co-operating with the other investigators will be specialists in transportation—men who have had as much railroad shipping experience as division freight agents—who will assist producers in securing proper freight rates and will discuss questions of extending facilities, determination of rates, routing and other matters connected with the speedy and cheap moving of produce to centers of wholesale and retail demand.

Special attention is to be given to the milking, marketing and utilization of cotton seed. A specialist in this line will gather full information necessary for the successful organization and operation of oil mills by co-operating producers. He will also endeavor to find new uses and new applications for cotton seed and its manufactured products.

Stray Dog Saves Town.

A stray dog, sheltered for the night by a kindly man, saved the town of Downey, La., from destruction by fire when it awakened its protector, Station Agent Flynn, who found a nearby store and factory ablaze. The two structures were destroyed, but Flynn aroused the town, and the citizens, improvising a fire brigade, saved the remainder of the village.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO BE HONORED

To Have First Place at Next International Congress.

PROBLEMS ARE COMPLEX.

Educators Will Meet in Buffalo Aug 25 to 30 to Discuss School Hygiene. "Little Red Schoolhouse" and How to Improve It Will Be Chief Theme of Discussion at Session.

The "little red schoolhouse" is to occupy a place of honor on the program of the Fourth international congress on school hygiene, which will meet in Buffalo from Aug. 25 to Aug. 30, according to a statement issued by the program committee, which is composed of Drs. Robert W. Lovett and David L. Edsall of Harvard, Dr. Luther H. Gulick of New York and Dr. Thomas A. Storey of the College of the City of New York, secretary general of the congress.

"The problems of the city schools have received a great deal of much deserved attention," say the members of the committee in their announcement of the program. "The very serious problems of the village school and of the rural school have received but little attention. The study and the solution of these problems are of obvious complexity and importance. The committee is therefore anxious to secure papers relating to rural school hygiene and village school hygiene as well as to the city school hygiene."

Dr. Claxton's Report.

In a report issued at Washington United States Commissioner of Education Philander P. Claxton calls attention to the subject of the little red school in the following terms:

"Until very recently few careful studies of the rural schools have been made, and we yet have little accurate information about them and little knowledge of the factors entering into the problem of their improvement. We do know in a general way that their terms are short, their support inadequate, their teachers poorly prepared, their attendance irregular, their management unsentient and wasteful of money, time and energy; their courses of study ill adapted to their needs and the houses in which the children are taught cheap and poorly equipped and furnished. That this is not true of all rural schools goes without saying, but it is unfortunately true in a large measure of most of them."

In all there are some 212,000 one teacher little red schoolhouses in the United States alone, according to the Washington report, prepared by A. C. Monahan. In this report there is a picture of a one teacher rural schoolhouse which is characterized as "a fair type of about one-half of the 212,000 one teacher rural schools." Most of the original red paint seems to have been washed off those schools.

An Erroneous Impression.

"A general impression has been created," says Mr. Monahan, "that there exists an American school system which is sufficient and nation wide, with equal educational opportunities in all parts of the country. The impression is erroneous. It is probably true that the public schools, both urban and rural, have made considerable progress, but the marked progress has been confined almost wholly to the city and town. The majority of rural schools are housed in uncomfortable buildings, unsuitable from every standpoint, without proper furniture or facilities for heating, ventilating and lighting; without adequate provisions for guarding the health and morals of the children and with comparatively little equipment for teaching."

Dr. Fletcher B. Dresslar, school hygiene specialist in the bureau of education, who is chairman of the committee on scientific exhibit at the fourth international congress, has recently been making a special study of the rural school building and grounds. The result of his investigation, which is to be published in a special bulletin, will be called to the attention of the delegates at Buffalo. Dr. Dresslar found that, although there is great need for reform, nevertheless the indications at the present time point toward a marked improvement in the rural school building, ground and equipment.

MENDICANTS USE AUTO.

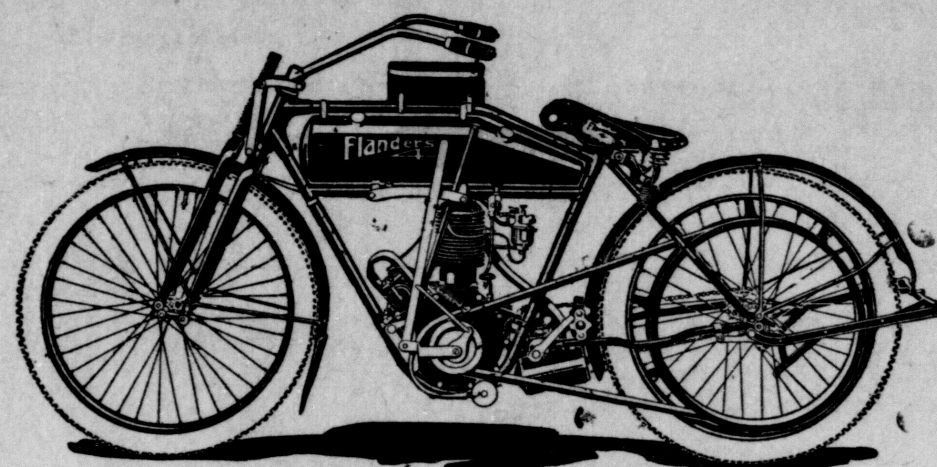

Blind Men and Wife Are Alms Seekers de la. Mo.

A blind man and his wife sitting helpless in a broken down motorcar near Wamego, Kan., attracted the attention and aroused the sympathy of L. A. Phillips and Guy Holmes.

Holmes and Phillips are in the service department of a Kansas City automobile company, and they travel about the country repairing cars. They spent two hours working on the blind man's car and sent it away in good shape, the wife smiling. In Wamego the "good Samaritans" explained their delay in arriving.

"Yes," said a neighbor, "that couple travels in a motorcar. They are beggars de la. The man is blind, and the woman is lame. She is a business woman, and they are waiting the towns of western Kansas. When they approach a town they hide the car in the woods until they open up, and then their speed away to the next town."

FINALLY SECURED A DEBATE ON SUBJECT

Republican Filibuster in the House Successful.

Washington, July 30.—Vigorously assailed were President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds by Republicans and Bull Moosers and as vigorously defended by Democrats in a debate on the Caminetti-Diggs white slave case in the house. The discussion was the outcome of a filibuster that has held up business in the house more than a week, Republican Leader Mann of Illinois vowing that he and his associates would throw every obstacle in the way of the Democrats until the majority permitted full and free discussion of the Caminetti-Diggs case. Wearied of the struggle, the Democrats capitulated when Representative Clayton of Alabama reported from the judiciary committee a resolution by Representative Kahn of California calling on the attorney general to produce a telegram addressed to United States Attorney McNab, directing McNab to take no action in the white slave cases until he had received further advice from the department of justice. The committee report recommended that the Kahn resolution be laid on the table. Arrangements were then made for a five-hour debate in which Representative Kahn, who criticized the administration, and many Democrats and Bull Moosers took part. Action was deferred on the report, an adjournment being forced at the conclusion of debate by a point of no quorum made by Representative Mann.

Washington, July 30.—Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee paid a brief visit to the senate lobby investigating committee room, where he characterized Colonel Martin M. Mulhall as a "liar," a "blackmailer," and a purveyor of "gold bricks."

Mr. Scholarly—"Look at all the inventions that are mentioned in these scientific magazines, and to think that no one has invented something to make washing easier! My wife's all fagged out because she washed this morning."

Anty Drudge—"Mr. Scholarly, there are some inventions that are not recorded in scientific magazines, but which are more useful than those which are. Get your wife some Fels-Naptha Soap to use when she washes, and she'll tell you that it's the finest thing ever invented to help women with their work."

The Fels-Naptha way of washing in cool or lukewarm water makes your clothes fresher, cleaner and sweeter than if you hard-rubbed and boiled them till Doomsday. It is much easier than any other way, because there is no need to keep up a hot fire and no lifting of heavy pails of water to fill the washboiler. Nothing but soaking in cool or lukewarm water with Fels-Naptha Soap, a light rub with the hands or on a board, rinsing and hanging out.

Follow the directions on the Red and Green Wrapper. Better buy Fels-Naptha by the box or carton.

MEDIATORS NAMED IN BIG RAILWAY DISPUTE

Preparations for Adjustment of Differences.

New York, July 30.—Vice President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and A. H. Smith, vice president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company, were appointed by forty-two eastern railroads as arbitrators to represent them in proceedings to settle the trainmen's demands under the Newland act amendment to the Erdman law.

Messrs. Atterbury and Smith will meet within a few days the arbitrators selected by the trainmen and conductors, Lucius W. Sheppard and Daniel L. Cease. The four arbitrators will have fifteen days to select two more. Should they fail to agree on the fifth and sixth arbitrators, the federal board of mediation and conciliation will appoint them. The full board of arbitrators will have forty-five days in which to make an award.

NO CLEARING OF THE AIR

Ambassador Wilson's Standing With Administration Still in Doubt.

Washington, July 30.—The senate committee on foreign relations called Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador to Mexico, before them today. There has been no clearing of the air in regard to Ambassador Wilson's standing with the administration, and the belief still prevails that he will not return to Mexico. A resolution looking to the recognition by the United States of the rights of the Mexican revolutionists as belligerents, was offered in the senate by Senator Sheppard of Texas. It was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Lightning Cures Rheumatism.
Connersville, Ind., July 30.—Lightning cured Martin Kelly of rheumatism. He was in the engine room of the Connersville blower works, where he is watchman, when lightning struck the smokestack and ran down into the engine room. Kelly was hurled to the floor by the bolt and had the breath knocked out of him. When he got up he found the rheumatic twinges gone from his joints and has felt no trace of them since.

Then He Killed Himself.
Osgood, Ind., July 30.—John Ashcraft shot his wife three times and then turned the revolver upon himself, and after shooting himself twice in the breast fell dead. The woman will recover. The parties had not been living together for some time, and jealousy is supposed to be the cause of the shooting.

Washington, July 30.—Charles F. Marvin has been selected for chief of the weather bureau to succeed Willis L. Moore, recently removed. Professor Marvin is now chief of the instrument division. He was appointed to the old signal service in 1884, from Ohio.

A MOVEMENT TO BLOCK PROGRAM

Senate Minority Opposes President's Currency Plan.

WOULD HOLD IT OVER AWHILE

Republican Leaders Make a Proposition to the Majority Leaders to Expedite the Passage of the Tariff Bill and Then Adjourn Without Taking Up Currency Legislation, but Find Democrats in No Mood to Accept.

Washington, July 30.—In the senate Republican leaders have submitted a proposal to the Democratic side to agree by unanimous consent to expedite the passage of the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill and then adjourn without taking up currency legislation at this session.

This proposal was first suggested by Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and later seconded by Senators Lodge and Gallinger. Finding the Democratic leaders in no mood to accept the proffer, Senator Gallinger boldly announced that if congress was to be kept in continuous session on the demand of the president after the tariff bill was disposed of, it might as well take all the time deemed necessary to debate the pending tariff bill.

Senator Lodge warned the Democratic leaders that they would not expedite the tariff bill so long as the president held over congress the threat of requiring them to stay here and consider a currency bill after the tariff measure had been disposed of. He invited the Democratic leaders to consider the matter carefully and submit a proposal for an agreement on a date for a vote on the tariff bill, to be followed by an adjournment or a recess for a month or so to enable senators and representatives to get a rest from their arduous work.

Senator Simmons replied that he was giving no consideration to the question of a currency bill, and would devote himself singly to the task of putting through the tariff bill at the earliest possible date.

Senator Borah rose as soon as Senator Lodge concluded and declared the suggestions that had just come from the Republican side did not represent the views of himself and a number of other Republicans. It was learned later that Senator Borah spoke for all the progressive Republicans, who held a separate conference and decided to carry on their opposition to the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill along distinctive lines.

BEAT UP "DRY" DETECTIVE

Auto Thugs Incapacitate Chief Witness in Blind Tiger Trial.

Muncie, Ind., July 30.—Just before the first of the seventeen "blind tiger" cases against Muncie men was to have begun in the circuit court, two unknown men attacked Louis Wein, sr., an Indianapolis detective, as he emerged from the Braun hotel, and so seriously injured him that he was unable to appear as the chief witness in the trials.

An automobile with its engine going and the driver in his seat, was standing near the hotel, and the two assailants were standing near the hotel entrance, apparently waiting for Wein to come out, according to bystanders. When Wein, who is about sixty-five years of age, appeared, the two slugs jumped on him and beat him. It is said one of the men wielded a brick. Then the slugs jumped into the waiting car and went north.

Sheriff White has the name of the chauffeur and says there is little doubt the men will be captured. It was necessary to postpone the trial of Arthur Duffy, who was the first of the seventeen. Wein and his son, Louis, jr., gathered the evidence against the alleged illegal dealers that is to be used in these trials.

Blind tiger operators, it was said, were angry because the circuit court refused to throw out the blind tiger cases on technicalities.

KILLED BY TRAIN ROBBERS

Brakeman of Freight Train Fatally Injured Near Hammond.

Hammond, Ind., July 30.—A Lake Shore freight train passing through Pine was held up by bandits, and cars filled with valuable merchandise were robbed. During a fight between the robbers and trainmen, J. S. Roy, a brakeman, was fatally wounded. He died a few hours later. Three desperadoes were arrested at Indiana Harbor by Lake Shore detectives.

Cigarette Causes $20,000 Fire.
Hammond, Ind., July 30.—A small boy, smoking a corn silk cigarette in a barn, came near repeating the O'Leary cow act for the two cities of Hammond and West Hammond, when a stiff wind from the west set fire to ten houses and exhausted the firemen of both places in their efforts to quench the flames. The loss reached $20,000.

A pearl necklace valued at $60,000 and other jewels bringing the total up to at least $75,000 were stolen from Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, at her summer home at Narragansett Pier.

BALL IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Militia Sergeant Faces First Degree Indictment.

GRAND JURY'S PROMPT ACTION

Tragedy of Recent Encampment of the Indiana National Guard Having Been Declared a Subject For Civil Investigation, Marion County Authorities Lose No Time in Presenting Case to Grand Jury, Which Acts Quickly.

Indianapolis, July 30.—An indictment has been returned by the Marion county grand jury charging Sergeant Edwin Ball of the Indiana national guard with murder in the first degree. Ball is accused in the indictment of having shot and fatally wounded Walter Dowell, a private in the guard, maliciously and with premeditation. Ball was arrested at Fort Benjamin Harrison. The tragedy occurred when Dowell attempted to escape after having been caught trying to smuggle whisky through the lines. Dowell's body was taken to Madison, Ind., yesterday for burial, being escorted by a squad from the guard.

The grand jury report is, in effect, a finding that in the opinion of the jurors Sergeant Ball exceeded his authority when he shot Dowell. The indictment was returned after a quick investigation. As soon as Attorney General Honan had given an opinion that Ball's guilt was a question for the civil courts of the state to decide, steps for a grand jury investigation were taken. The grand jury began hearing witnesses at 2 o'clock, and at 5 the indictment was returned.

What the grand jury learned was not disclosed. It is believed that questions were asked concerning reports that Dowell had been given an order by a noncommissioned officer to get the bottle of liquor he was carrying when arrested by Sergeant Ball, and as to what, if any, orders had been issued concerning shooting at fleeing prisoners. Another phase of the case believed to have been before the grand jury was where Sergeant Ball obtained the ammunition for his revolver. It has been said that no ball ammunition was to be issued to the militiamen. It was intimated that others than Ball had ball ammunition and it was learned where it was obtained.

Palestine Children at Play.
In Palestine, as always, according to a contributor to Chambers' Journal, children's play is mostly "making believe" that they are grown up. You may see a mite of five or six paying a visit of ceremony to a pasha of equally tender years, exchanging such compliments with him as "Rest, I pray you!" "Nay, he who sees you is rested!" and finally backing out of his presence, while he gathers up handfuls of dust and sprinkles it on his head. Holding a law court, with melen seeds to represent the bribes, is a popular game, and so is a raid of fierce men from the desert. The selling of Joseph and his subsequent interviews with his brethren are rendered with much dramatic action. Also the afflictions of the man of Uz, with new details, such as Job's wife cutting off her hair and selling it for bread. "Doing bride" is naturally the chief amusement of the Moslem girl, as it is the one great event of her later life.

Dr. Johnson and Ghosts.
Dr. Johnson expressed himself with characteristic caution and common sense on the subject of ghosts. "It is wonderful," he said, "that 5,000 years have now elapsed since the creation of the world, and still it is undecided whether or not there has ever been an instance of the spirit of any person appearing after death." Yet the credibility of some stories of apparitions can hardly be called in question. Edward Fitzgerald was far from being a superstitious man, and there is a story of Fitzgerald in a book called "Tennyson and His Friends." He once told some people "how he had one day clearly seen from outside his sister and her children having tea in his dining room. He then saw his sister quietly withdraw from the room so as not to disturb the children. At that moment she died in Norfolk."—London Mail.

His Thrilling Experience.
The following is an extract from a youthful autobiography:

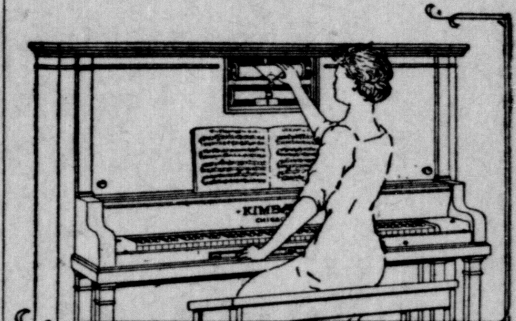

"I am eleven years old. When I was three I had the scarlet fever. After that I had mumps, measles and whooping cough, soon a great dane jumped and bit my face and then I fell off of a ladder and broke my arm. Mother says boys have much better times now than when she was childish."—Everybody's.

No Investigation Yet.

A special session of the city council was held last night and the question of ordering an investigation of the causes for the lack of fire pressure at Masonic block fire was not mentioned. The meeting was called last night for the purpose of awarding a paving contract and it may be that the council determined to wait until the regular meeting next Tuesday.

At any event it would have taken no more than a few minutes of the council's time to order an investigation. And there is little doubt in the minds of the people but that an investigation is in order. The mere fact that there was no fire pressure should be investigated. The fact that a sixty thousand dollar fire loss could have been reduced to a few paltry dollars, according to witnesses who were first on the scene, is sufficient excuse for obtaining the facts.

There seems to be nothing standing in the way of an investigation. Councilman Ed Kelley, a Democrat, says the blame should be placed where it belongs. Mayor Black says that he welcomes an investigation. Councilman Orme, Democrat, says that he favors an investigation. Councilman Parsons, Democrat declared himself in favor of an investigation a few days after the fire. George F. Moore and Alva Newhouse, Republican members of the council, said at the same time that an investigation should be held to determine where the fault lay.

The whole city administration apparently is in favor of an investigation. Do the people of Rushville propose to let the whole thing slide without so much as a word of inquiry? Does Rushville expect to have no more fire protection than that afforded at the Masonic fire. Only the best of good fortune then prevented the business district of the city from being swept away. There was no wind to carry the burning embers else adjoining places would have caught fire. The fact that the Dillon homestead to the south of the Masonic block was brick and that the south wall of the Masonic block stood prevented the fire from spreading to the south into the business district. Only the heroic work of Fireman Sam Finney kept the Allen grocery store from catching on fire. Once that structure had been fired and the flames would have spread into the frame structure of the resident district and it would have been difficult to guess what the result would have been.

The city council has another opportunity to order an investigation. There will be a meeting next Tuesday evening. At that time, if the members of the city council were speaking in good faith when they all said they favored an investigation, they will order one. It remains for the city council to keep its word with the city. The members of the council must have understood when they said they favored an investigation that the sole power of calling one lay with that body.

Will the city council keep its word with the people?

Councilman Newhouse last night at council meeting asked why the holes in West Third street, made to repair broken mains, had not been repaved. Councilman Ed Kelley said that the city was waiting for more breaks in the mains. Hurry, mains, and break so the street may get back to its normal self once more.

The Indianapolis Star claims the credit for obtaining for Former Congressman James E. Watson the permission to answer the charges of M. M. Mulhall before the Senate lobby investigating committee. We hope the Star's claim is just for the Star certainly owes Mr. Watson something for injustices already done.

Democratic newspapers which were reveling in the Mulhall "expose" a few days ago are singularly quiet since the introduction of Mulhall's letter telling of conferences with many Democratic national leaders and of his belief that he could get more out of a Democratic Congress than Republican.

Oscar M. Underwood, Democratic House leader, denounced M. M. Mulhall as "a liar and blackmailer." Mulhall testified he had talked to Underwood concerning pending legislation. Will the Indianapolis News please copy?

The city council last night bought five hundred feet of hose. Now to determine whether there is going to be any water to flow through the hose at the next fire.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

The Indianapolis News piously deplores the activities of "big business" in the Indiana state campaign of 1908. It says that undoubtedly it was active that year in behalf of the Republican cause in Indiana.

Robert G. Tucker, Indianapolis correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who ought to know, declares in his Sunday letter: "Members of the brewers' organizations have admitted privately that they spent nearly a half million dollars that year beating Watson and Hemenway."

Mr. Tucker, whose prejudices run against rather than in favor of Republicanism, adds: "The Republican state committee found it very difficult to raise money for the necessary running expenses."

It is possible that the News never heard of this before? Has its halo never been hit by this information? It was cheek by jowl with the Marshall campaign in 1908. It was in position to know all that was going on, including the character and size of the contributions made to the campaign fund and the method of expenditure.

Does the News really think that its affection of ignorance regarding the activities of big business, big business with a definite and immediate end in view, in the Indiana campaign of 1908, at a time when the News were pulling in double political harness, will go down with the people of this state?

The News helped create the sentiment against brewery rule in Indiana. When that sentiment came to a focus in Indiana is deserted the cause. It did not lift its hand for county local option during the special session of the legislature which enacted it. It fought the party which in its state platform had incorporated a plank endorsing that law.

In other words the News was hand in glove in 1908 with the wing of the army of big business which really did business in Indiana that year. If called upon it could furnish plenty of witnesses who could tell of the existence of a half million dollar campaign fund admittedly raised by a home grown element in big business which was fighting with its back to the wall, and, naturally enough, with every resource at its command.

If Mr. Mulhall is to be believed and the News will believe him so long as his stories reflect on the right people, big business was active on both sides in the Indiana campaign of 1908. We fail to see, however, even if all that Mulhall says were true, that the activities of Watson's manufacturers could be considered any more reprehensible than those of the brewery organization which swung the balance of power that made Mr. Marshall governor and paved the way for his election to the vice presidency. We say this even though the News insists on regarding Mr. Marshall as an immaculate apostle of the uplift and Mr. Watson as an undesirable citizen.

"DOG DAYS" ARE A MYTH SAYS EXPERT

Mad Dogs Are About as Scarce as Icicles in July—Are no More Common Than in Winter.

THUNDER FRIGHTENS SOME

"Dog days" are a myth and "mad dogs" are as scarce as icicles in July, according to one dog expert who takes little stock in new fangled ideas about rabies.

A dog is no more likely to "go mad" in hot weather than in cold weather. Madness in dogs is largely a matter of environment and seasons have little to do with it except as they exert an influence upon the mind or nerves of the dog. Dogs are often tormented into biting people by being teased, wooled, pulled and generally aroused until they use their teeth in self defense. Some dogs are terrorized by thunder and lightning and become so nervous that they sometimes bite their own masters. As soon as the storm passes they are themselves again.

The dog expert claims that a genuine rabid dog does not run around in circles and froth at the mouth, but that he lopes along in a straight line, suffering intensely and only biting what happens to be in his path.

RIB IS BROKEN.

Greensburg News: Examination made by a physician at Burney this morning revealed the fact that the injury received by ex-County Commissioner Frank Alexander in the Smiley auto wreck at Dunreith Saturday was somewhat more serious than at first thought. Mr. Alexander suffered continuously from a pain in his chest, and it was discovered on closer examination that one rib had been fractured. After it had been dressed Mr. Alexander felt much better. Mrs. Webb, also one of the victims, was much improved today.

FREAK OF RAINFALL.

Greensburg News: The rain clouds which swept over Decatur county yesterday afternoon and evening did some odd stunts in the Clarksburg vicinity. In that section the downpour was not heavy but sufficient to hinder the wheat threshing. Some spots were missed entirely, and one threshing outfit, which had been stopped from work, moved to another job half a mile away and there continued operations during the entire evening. Not a drop of rain fell on that farm.

Dr. Guerrant is one of the most if not the most prominent southern educators. It was he who conceived the missionary worker among the ignorant mountaineers.

One of the most eminent southern educators has said of Dr. Guerrant, "There are some men who have never given a minute's study to the technique of authorship, but who know how to write, as a bird knows how to fly." He has also been compared to Dr. John Brown of whom Robert Louis Stevenson said, "Yet stepped your pen into the ink, an' there was Rab and his friends."

So with Dr. Guerrant. He stepped his pen into the ink, and there was the American highlander. No waste of words—no beating about the bush—no leisurely approach—swift and straight he goes to the heart of his subject. As Sir Walter Scott by the "Lady of the Lake" and Rob Roy" made the Highlanders of Scotland known to the world, so Dr. Guerrant by his books, "The Galax Gatherers," and "The Gospel of the Lilies," has given to the world a true knowledge of this vastly greater and wilder Appalachian region with its four millions of untutored and unchristianized people, occupying a territory of some eighty-three millions of square miles.

He has been in turn, soldier, doctor, pastor and evangelist. He gave up the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Louisville, Ky., to go as evangelist to the Mountaineers. He is acquainted with all noted feudists of the "Dark and Bloody Ground." Bloody Breathitt is known to him in every nook and corner. No other man in America has a message that means more to the country than has Dr. Guerrant.

The ladies of the Ninth Street Baptist church will give an ice-cream supper on the church lawn this evening.

GYPSIES ON THE WAY TO MEXICO

King of Tribes Will be Elected to Succeed "King" Nicholas Who is Dead.

RULER FOR THIRTY YEARS

Hundreds of long gypsy caravans are winding over Indiana and Illinois roads this week bound for Mexico, Mo., where the new king of the large Mitchell tribe will be elected and crowned, according to gypsy ceremonial. In other states similar movements are occurring, for the word has gone out that the old king is dead. All these bands in their journey pass by Danville, Ill., to gaze on the grave of their dead ruler, King Nicholas, whose death occurred in camp near Norway, White county, a couple of weeks ago.

King Tom Nicholas had ruled the Nicholas or Mitchell tribe for thirty years. His successor had been selected and the gathering at Mexico is merely a ratification. The new king to be formally elected when the fragments of the tribe, all headed toward the Missouri city, unite, is Emil Mitchell. He was a nephew of the late king and is already a king. He is ruler of all the gypsies of the United States. He has papers signed by former President Taft and former Secretary of State Knox, proclaiming that he is the recognized chieftain of American gypsies. CAR SHORTAGE.

Shelbyville Republican: A car shortage on the C. H. & D. railroad caused the elevators at Morristown and Gwynneville to be filled to capacity last week and two elevators were forced to close down for two days, while all others were filled by Saturday night. However, a fresh supply of empty cars came this week and the grain is now moving rapidly.

H. L. C. RESTAURANTS.

(Connersville Examiner.)
The high cost of living has struck restaurants of the city with a vengeance, judging by notices posted in two of the leading eating emporiums today. When the hungry horde gathered at these places about noon time today, they found notices staring at them which stated that owing to the high cost of food products, which has been steadily soaring skyward in the last twenty years, the aforementioned establishments had found it absolutely impossible to furnish meals at the prevailing prices and that beginning tomorrow, the prices of meals would be increased.

badly in need of fire hose and the order was placed.

A certificate for $1300 was ordered drawn in favor of the Ohio Construction company. This company has the contract for the building of West Tenth street and it was shown that enough of the work was complete to give them $1300.

The old question of opening Willow street from the Pennsylvania rail road north to Eleventh street was again before the council. A petition for the opening of the street was granted last October but this is as far as the matter ever went. The damages and benefits assessed by the council will have to be gone over and as a working basis a survey will have to be made to get the center of the street north of Tenth street. A resolution to open the street was adopted.

A petition signed by the residents of the Stewart and Tompkins addition to Belmont asking for water mains in Perkins and Willow street was presented to the council. The petition was granted.

Parry, the writer, by which his story was sold to two newspapers.

In his letter to Watson, Mulhall said:

"I have done work in other organizations since I left the manufacturers, but the work has not been steady that if you would interest yourself or agreeable and I knew very well that if you would interest yourself with Mr. Parry and see him in my behalf, and make a personal request on him to get busy, he would do so. While I was in the organization I did everything I possibly could to please Mr. Parry, and I have reasons to believe he has been my friend in the past, but I wrote him several letters within the last few weeks and he has failed to answer any of them, and I feel assured that influences has been brought to bear upon this by Kirby and Bird to ignore my letters.

"I was given to understand that Col. George Pope of Hartford, Conn., is the new president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and I am told that he is a very able and conscientious gentleman, and a very warm friend of Mr. Parry."

Amusements

The Princess will show a two-reel Vitagraph feature tonight entitled "The Still Voice." It is said to be a beautiful story and shows an all-star cast including Sidney Drew, one time legitimate star, Edith Story, Rose Tapley and Roger Lytton. "The Still Voice" is a great dramatic production and the scenes are of the very best.

Todd and Sons United Shows, who are playing a week's engagement on the Ball Grounds, gave a much improved show last night and Dare Devil Meyers, the high diver, made his perilous dive to the entire satisfaction of the large crowd assembled on the grounds. The merry-go-round and the big Ferris wheel did a big business and justly so as these two big machines are without a doubt the best ever here, each of them equipped with their own electric light plant and studded with red, white and blue lights make a very fine appearance. This afternoon and every afternoon the management promises a Balloon Ascension and Parachute Drop by Prof. Austin and Dare Devil Meyers's high dive each night and these two big feature Acts will no doubt draw a record breaking crowd during the balance of the week.

The Matlock family reunion will be held Sunday, August 3, at Garfield park, Indianapolis.

CHAPTER V.

Beginning with the awful moment when she first realized her danger and the necessity for immediate flight, she lived over every perilous instant, her nerves straining, her breath bated as if she were experiencing it all once more. The horror of it! Her own hopeless, helpless condition! But finally, because her trouble was new and her body and mind, though worn with excitement, were healthy and young, she sank into a deep sleep, without having decided at all what she should do.

At last she woke from a terrible dream, in which the hand of her pursuer was upon her, and her preserver was in the dark distance. With that strange insistence which torments the victim of such dreams, she was obliged to lie still and imagine it out, again and again, until the face and voice of the young man grew very real in the darkness, and she longed inexpressibly for the comfort of his presence once more.

At length she shook off the pursuing thoughts and deliberately roused herself to plan her future.

The first necessity, she decided, was to change her appearance so far as possible, so that if news of her escape, with full description, had been telegraphed, she might evade notice. To that end, she arose in the early dawn—ing of a gray and misty morning, and arranged her hair as she had never worn it before, in two braids and wound closely about her head. She pinned up her gown until it did not show below the long black coat, and folded a white linen handkerchief about her throat over the delicate lace and garniture of the modish waist. Then she looked dubiously at the hat.

With a girl's instinct, her first thought was for her borrowed luggage. A fine mist was slanting down and had fretted the window pane until there was nothing visible but dull gray shadows of the world that flew monotonously by. With sudden remembrance, she opened the suitcase and took out the folded black hat, shook it into shape, and put it on. It was mannish, of course, but girls often wore such hats.

As she surveyed herself in the long mirror of her door, the slow color stole into her cheeks. Yet the costume was not unbecoming, nor unusual. She looked like a simple school girl, or a young business woman going to her day's work.

But she looked at the fashionable proportions of the other hat with something like alarm. How could she protect it? She did not for a moment think of abandoning it, for it was her earnest desire to return it at once, unharmed, to its kind purloiner.

She summoned the newsboy and purchased three thick newspapers. From these, with the aid of a few pins, she made a large package of the hat. She decided to go bareheaded, and put the white kid gloves in the suitcase, but she took off her beautiful rings, and hid them safely inside her dress.

She sacrificed one of her precious quarters to get rid of the attentive porter, and started off with a brisk step down the long platform to the station. She followed a group of people into a car, which presently brought her into the neighborhood of the large stores, as she had hoped it would. It was with relief that she recognized the name on one of the stores as being of world-wide reputation.

Well for her that she was an experienced shopper. She went straight to the millinery department and arranged to have the hat boxed and sent to the address Dunham had given her.

It had cost less to express the hat than she had feared, yet her stock of money was woefully small. Some kind of a dress she must have, and a wrap, that she might be disguised, but what could she buy and yet have something left for food? Lifting her eyes, she saw a sign over a table—"Linene Skirts, 75 cents and $1.00."

Here was a ray of hope. She turned eagerly to examine them. Piles of somber skirts, blue and black and tan. They were stout and coarse and scant, and not of the latest cut, but what mattered it? She decided on a seventy-five cent black one.

Growing wise with experience, she discovered that she could get a black sateen shirtwaist for fifty cents. Rubbers and a cotton umbrella took another dollar and a half. She must save at least a dollar to send back the suitcase by express.

A bargain-table of odds and ends of woollen jackets, golf vests, and old fashioned blouse sweaters, selling off at a dollar apiece, solved the problem of a wrap. She selected a dark blouse, of an ugly, purple blue, but thick and warm. Then with her precious packages she asked a pleasant-faced saleswoman if there were any place near where she could slip on a walking skirt she had just bought to save her other skirt from the muddy streets. She was ushered into a little fitting-room near by.

Rapidly she slipped off her fine, silk-lined cloth garments, and put on the stiff sateen waist and the coarse black skirt. Then she surveyed herself, and was not ill pleased. There was a striking lack of collar and belt. She sought out a black necktie and pinned it about her waist, and then, with a protesting frown, she deliberately tore a strip from the edge of one of the fine hem-stitched handkerchiefs, and folded it in about her neck in a turn-over collar. The result was quite startling and unfamiliar. The gown, the hair, the hat, and the neat collar gave her the look of a young nurse-girl or upper servant. On the whole, the disguise could not have been better. She added the blue woollen blouse, and felt certain that even her most intimate friends would not recognize her. She folded the raincoat, and placed it smoothly in the suitcase, then with dismay remembered that she had nothing in which to put her own cloth dress, save the few inadequate paper wrappings that had come about her simple purchases. She folded the dress smoothly and laid it in the suitcase, under the raincoat.

She sat down at a writing-desk, in the waiting room, and wrote: "I am safe, and I thank you." Then she paused an instant, and with nervous haste wrote "Mary" underneath. She opened the suitcase and pinned the paper to the lapel of the evening coat. Just three dollars and sixty-seven cents she had left in her pocketbook after paying the expressage on the suitcase.

At her first waking, in the early gray hours of the morning, she had looked her predicament calmly in the face. She had gone carefully over her own accomplishments. Her musical attainments, which would naturally have been the first thought, were out of the question. Her skill as a musician was so great, and so well known by her enemy, that she would probably be traced by it at once. The same arguments were true if she were to attempt to take a position as teacher or governess, although she was thoroughly competent to do so. A servant's place in some one's home was the only thing possible that presented itself to her mind. She could not cook, nor do general housework, but she thought she could fill the place of waitress.

With a brave face, but a shrinking heart, she stepped into a drug store and looked up in the directory the addresses of several employment agencies.

TABLET REVEALS BABYLONIAN LAW

Precepts of 2300 B. C. Deciphered From Ancient Stone.

HAD BANKRUPTCY CODE.

According to Experts of the University of Pennsylvania, Who Now Have Venerable Relic, It Is Oldest Record Extant of Ancient Legal Code. Found Near Susa.

What is said to be an archaeological discovery of great interest to scholars the world over is announced by the museum of the University of Pennsylvania.

It is a shattered tablet, upon particles of which, pieced together, are inscribed many of the missing laws from the code of King Hammurabi, who ruled Babylonia at a period estimated about 2100 to 2300 B. C.

Most of the laws, as deciphered, refer to financial transactions, and one contains the germ from which, perhaps, sprang all bankrupt laws of the last 4,000 years. No criminal statutes are expounded.

The tablet, which is believed to be part of the oldest collection of laws and precepts extant, was found at Susa in the winter of 1901-'02 by M. de Morgan, a French archaeologist, and brought to this country recently by an expedition of the University of Pennsylvania, returning from Nippur, an ancient city in Babylonia, where the university has made extensive excavations.

Ancients' Bankruptcy Law.

Dr. Arno Poebel of the University of Breslau, a distinguished oriental scholar, deciphered the much worn Babylonian characters. The law relating to bankruptcy says:

"If a man has borrowed grain or money from the merchant and has neither grain nor money to pay back, but he has movable goods, he shall give whatever he has to the merchant in the presence of witnesses, according as (words missing) the merchant shall not refuse; he must accept."

Another law, dealing with interest, says:

"If the merchant lends grain upon interest he shall take one-fifth of a ker of grain for each ker as interest. If he lends money upon interest he shall take a sixth and six grains of silver for each shekel as interest."

Interest at 20 Per Cent.

This would have required borrowers to pay interest at the rate of 20 per cent. Another law provided that if a merchant charged compound interest he should lose the principal and six times the amount of interest as forfeit.

The borrower who had been robbed and had nothing with which to repay was compelled to go to the temple and take oath to his losses, after which he was permitted his freedom.

Provision was made in the ancient law for the business man who met with failure, for it is set forth in the tablet that if an agent returning from a tour has made no profits the merchant may not claim interest on goods or for money advanced.

MUSIC BOX BAIT FOR BASS.

Combined With a Pretty Girl's Face It Lures Fish.

E. E. Wright and Pyatt Hubler, two disciples of Izaak Walton, of Sharon, Pa., have invented a musical minnow for bass fishing. The new device is described as a wooden minnow, and instead of the usual spinner in front there is carved out the face of a pretty girl. In front of the face is a miniature electric light, the power for which is furnished by a dry battery carried in the pocket of the fisherman. There is also a small clamp in front of the hook to throw light on the bait, which hangs on the under side.

The minnow is painted red, and within it is a tiny music box, the playing of which is regulated by the fisherman before he casts his line.

The inventors say they adopted the idea because they found while fishing in the Tuscarawa river that the bass were attracted by the ringing of a cow bell. They declare that the music box is a great improvement on that idea and that they have had marked success with it.

COATLESS CHURCHES ON WAY

Pastor Predicts Negligee Style For Men In Summer Is Coming.

A coatless church in summer soon will be a common sight, according to the Rev. E. Hez Swem, pastor of the Centennial Baptist church of Washington. He was commenting upon the example of the Baltimore pastor who preached a sermon recently in shirt sleeves.

"When I first preached coatless sermons to coatless men last summer I was severely criticised," said the Rev. Mr. Swem, "but the example is being followed today in Ohio and Wisconsin, and it seems that Baltimore is also getting in line."

"I find that the women of my congregation do not object in the least to men in comfortable attire. I will admit that I felt queer the first time I appeared in pulpit in my shirt sleeves, but that feeling soon passed."

SILLO TRAIN FOR FARMERS.

Models of Different Types Will Be Shown by Experts.

To show western Kansas farmers the advantages of silos—how to build the various types, how to fill them properly and how to feed silage—the Rock Island railway and the Kansas Agricultural college will run a silo train in western Kansas next month. The train will leave Goodland, in Sherman county, Aug. 4 and run east to Junction City, thence southwest to Liberal, in Seward county. Seven days will be spent along this route.

A flat car will carry models of different types of silos and of silo machinery. Opportunity will be given every one to examine these carefully. Experts from the agricultural college will give lectures at every stop. To farmers who are contemplating building silos this train will afford a chance to get accurate first hand information and advice. To those who aren't yet convinced that the salvation of western Kansas lies in the general use of silos, the college speakers will submit convincing arguments. The itinerary for the silo train will be announced soon.

WOULD KEEP LIBERTY BELL.

Signers' Descendants Object to Its Removal to Panama Fair.

Resolutions protesting against the proposed removal of the Liberty Bell to San Francisco for the Panama-Pacific exposition were adopted by the Society of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence at their annual meeting in Philadelphia. A movement was inaugurated to locate the graves of all the signers and to see that they are properly marked.

General Charles Lukens Davis of New York, a descendant of John Wharton, was elected president; Colonel Gordon W. McCabe, Richmond, Va., first vice president; Russell Duane, Philadelphia, second vice president, and Carl Magee Kneass, Philadelphia, secretary. The other officers were re-elected.

Saw Wood After the Wedding.

Many of the small towns in Europe have distinctive wedding customs which must be observed, and of these the old mountain town of Wildermann, in Germany, claims one that is particularly interesting and quaint. On the day before the wedding the young men interested in the couple place a sawhorse on the top of the house where the bride is lodging, usually upon a chimney, and the bridegroom has to take it down before the wedding. On the wedding day the couple find a rope barring their way after they leave the church, and they are not allowed to pass until they have sawed in two the knotty log lying upon the horse. The inhabitants of the town gather around to watch the sawing, which is supposed to show whether or not the couple will pull well together.—Popular Mechanics.

Berlin's Palaces.

Berlin owes its palaces and many of its finest buildings to Frederick William I. That monarch had a passion for building and transmitted it to others. Whenever he heard of a rich merchant settling in the capital he ordered him to build a residence in keeping with his wealth. If the merchant obeyed he was duly rewarded, and many German families owe their title of nobility to an ancestor having built a fine house.

JAPAN FAILS TO SEE IT JUST AS WE DO

Another Note of Protest Is on the Way.

Washington, July 30.—When it was learned that the government of Japan has informally notified Secretary of State Bryan that it intends to submit another note in reply to the one last received from the United States, it became apparent that the Japanese controversy is still far from settlement.

It had been the hope of the administration that Japan would have nothing further to say on the subject following the receipt by her of the note from Mr. Bryan. It was hoped that the Japanese would see that the United States considered that the case had been settled by its argumentative demonstration that the treaty had not been violated by the California alien land law and that no discrimination against Japan is intended by the Washington government. It is now apparent, however, that Japan is not going to rest content with the reiterated statement upon the part of the United States that there is no cause for complaint upon her part.

It is now well understood here that the United States government has nothing to offer Japan in the way of reparation for the California alien land law and that up to the present no concessions are contemplated.

PREPARING FOR DECISIVE MOVE

Administration Planning Action Regarding Huerta.

LATTER'S POSITION UNTENABLE

Though President Wilson Is Not Inclined to Rush Headlong Into Even a Proposal of Mediation, It Is the Expectation That It Will Not Be Many Days Before the Government at Washington Takes Action.

Washington, July 30.—It is now clearly apparent that the administration intends to go slowly in attempting to solve the Mexican problem. There has been no change in the situation and no move has been made on the part of the president or Secretary Bryan toward altering in any way the present state of affairs.

It has become more positive, however, that the idea uppermost in the president's mind with reference to Mexico is mediation of some sort. The idea has hardly advanced beyond a tentative state, but it is the present intention to try to shape it into a definite plan. The president is not inclined to rush headlong into even a proposal of mediation.

It is the expectation that it will be many days before the administration makes any decisive move in regard to the Mexican situation. Meantime the impression is growing that out of the wholly extra official efforts to work out a program of conciliation and compromise in Mexico there may result something which will render unnecessary any drastic action by the government of the United States. While this movement toward a compromise, the chief feature of which is, of course, the elimination of President Huerta, is wholly outside the administration, it is understood that President Wilson is inclined to delay a final decision pending the efforts of those behind the new program in Mexico.

This movement seems to center chiefly about Oscar Braniff, a wealthy Mexican, who left today for Mexico City. Mr. Braniff has been in Washington several days conferring with Secretary of State Bryan and state department officials. While his plans are fully known and understood by the state department, they are not receiving either the approval or the disapproval of that department. It may be said, however, that the state department is not out of sympathy with Mr. Braniff.

Many of those supporting the movement for a readjustment in Mexico to be made by the Mexicans themselves, believe there is a fair prospect of inducing President Huerta to resign his office immediately. It was pointed out that if Huerta is following closely the trend of events and policies in Washington it will be easy to convince him that the president has not the slightest intention of giving him and his government any recognition. It was further suggested that it ought not to be difficult to make Huerta see that his cause as president of Mexico is absolutely hopeless and that he might as well make the best of a bad situation by eliminating himself and leaving the way clear for the arrangement of a modus vivendi to hold until elections can be held.

While heretofore the business interests of all nationalities in Mexico have clamored for the recognition of Huerta because they felt that he, as the head of the only government in Mexico was the only man who could do anything to make life and property reasonably secure, it is understood now that some of them have changed their views.

That Huerta has begun to see the light to a certain extent has been indicated by his ostentatious efforts to please the Washington government in the last few days. Huerta has acceded to every demand made in the case of Charles B. Dixon, the United States immigration inspector shot at Juarez by federal soldiers; he has, upon demand from the American embassy, instructed his officers to release Charles Bissel, an American, and Bernard MacDonald, an Englishman, who were imprisoned by federals near Chihuahua. He has also asked Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy to convey to the president his expressions of regret that the American government should ascribe to the influence of the Mexican government any action antagonistic to Americans during his (Huerta's) occupancy of the presidency. He sent assurances to the state department that no injustice or violence shall be done to Americans with his cognizance as long as he is president of Mexico.

From the faction opposing Huerta come advices reassuring as to prospects of an amicable settlement of the Mexican situation. The Carrancistas or 'Constitutionalists' have undergone a change of heart and declare that they are in a "receptive mood." This receptiveness, however, extends only to such propositions as are predicated upon the ousting of Huerta.

No definite program as to how Huerta's removal is to be accomplished has been yet brought forward.

FLATROCK TEAM MEETS MEACHAMS

Fast Game Promised Saturday in the Sunday School League—Is Their First Meeting.

PRESBYTERIANS IN SHAPE

It was known for a certainty today that the Flatrock team of the Sunday School league would be here Saturday for the game with the Presbyterian team. The Flatrock team has played only two games in the league due to the fact that all the players are busy on the farm, but from now on they will be able to play all the games that are scheduled. The game between the farmer boys and the Presbyterian team should prove a good one. The Presbyterian team is going good now and the victory over the Christians last Saturday shows that they will be hard for the Flatrock team to beat. The Christians have lost one game to the Flatrock boys. Newton Halterman will probably pitch for the Flatrock team and will be opposed by Higgs or Buell for the Presbyterians. The game will be called at four o'clock.

RALPH PIERCE IS BACK IN GAME

Arcadian Outfielder, Who Was Injured Last Week is Again Ready to Play.

MANAGEMENT UP AGAINST IT

Has an Over Supply of Good Players and Someone Will be Let Out.

The local baseball management is up against it on the player proposition. This time it is not the lack of good players as is usually the case, but an over supply. The team as it stood today was composed of twelve men and the management will be compelled to let some one go. The proposition as to who should be let out bothered the management as all are good players and it was a toss up as to who should get the ax.

The difficulty arose with the news that Ralph Pierce, who was injured last week when he came in contact with a live wire, would be back in the game Sunday against the fast Y. M. I. team of Cincinnati. Pierce was expected to be out of the game for a month and his return upset the plans. Of course the fans will be glad to know that he will be back as the outfield was weakened with his loss. Pierce is certain to stick as he is a grand ball player and the Arcadians can not afford to lose him.

The rest of the outfield for the game Sunday will be composed of Yazel, Tompkins, Bridges or Jones. The management wants to give "Nick" Tompkins, a local product, a try-out and if he makes good some one will have to go. Bridges is a real first baseman and as Stub Coombs has been playing a good game the management is up against it again on which one to keep.

It very seldom happens that a team is composed of too much material but this is the case with the Rushville team. It is not thought best to carry twelve men, but they may all be given a chance Sunday. With the return of Pierce to the game and the signing of "Red Murray for third base, the fans are confident that the team will travel some from now on. Following the game Sunday with the Y. M. I. team the Arcadians will journey to Newcastle. The team looks good enough to beat Newcastle this year and a special train loaded with fans will make the trip.

The line up for the game Sunday is uncertain, but the team may face the Y. M. I.'s something like this: Mattern, catch; Avery or Jones, pitch; Coombs or Bridges, first; Cook, second; Murray, third; Klenk, short; Pierce, left; Tompkins, center; Yazel or Jones, right. The team is aware that it will face a fast team in the Y. M. I. aggregation as the last time the two met they battled for thirteen innings. The grounds are in first class condition and the new addition to the grand stand is completed.

LIBEL SUITS IN ORDER.

Decatur Herald: Several newspapers which have accepted the Mulhall perjuries as the truth and then proceeded editorially to attack his victims personally by denouncing them as "criminals," etc., are in the line for libel suits. The Philadelphia North American is the first in the list, a suit for $500,000 damages already being in preparation.

AT WORK ON BRIDGE.

The bridge over Six-Mile Creek on the line between Hancock and Rush counties, is being rebuilt. The men at work on the bridge used 450 pound of dynamite in taking out the old abutment. The bridge was destroyed in the spring floods.
